

JRC Head of Technology

The Joint Radio Company are an innovative organisation leading change in telecoms and radio technology in the Utility sector. As part of our ongoing development plans, we are seeking to recruit a strong leader as the new “Head of Technology”, the candidate will be responsible for technical leadership in JRC, a wide ranging role with extensive UK and Global engagement to deliver strategic change within the UK Energy Utilities. It will encompass both significant thought leadership and complex technical programme management in a period of profound change in the sector. Success in this role will be dependent on extensive experience in core network, access network, designed in resilience and cyber security requirements. If you have the skills, experience and determination to deliver this opportunity, please get in touch.